Globalization is not a “free choice” that someone has decided to implement; on the contrary, it represents the expression of the evolution of human societies, the processes that have accompanied the development of mankind and the products of the economic exchanges that have always been accompanied by intense scientific and cultural cooperation. However, the increase in exchanges; indeed, often the exchange of “intangible” values has been the prevailing driving force behind globalization.

The pandemic of COVID-19, which has spread across the world, has accelerated a profound change in the attitudes recorded so far in the global issues. There is the need for a profound change in the attitudes recorded so far in the conduct of global affairs. In this regard, between China and Italy there is a precious initiative that should be enriched with further meanings, cultural and otherwise, to promote a peaceful relation between the two realities. These issues are the subject of great attention by the two governments. In particular, in the Chinese Senate Dr. Sun Yanhong, associate research fellow at Institute of European Studies, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, and Prof. Gian Maria FARA, President EURISPES – Institute for Political, Economic and Social Studies, have published an article that shows that mankind is indeed a community of shared future. However, the pandemic of COVID-19 seems to be an urgent task of both China and the EU is to build a real balance between economic recovery and social stability.

The spread of the epidemic and the response of different countries have truly shown that mankind is indeed a community of shared future. However, the pandemic of COVID-19 seems to be an urgent task of both China and Europe, which helped a lot to keep the pandemic attack down. In March 2019, President Xi Jinping of China has arrived in Italy and signed a communique to strengthen the comprehensive strategic partnership and signed a joint statement to promote Italy-China Strategic Partnership. The pandemic between diversities, a sincere attitude to respect and understanding of each other. In other words, there is the need for a profound change in the attitudes recorded so far in the conduct of global affairs. In this regard, between China and Italy there is a precious initiative that should be enriched with further meanings, cultural and otherwise, to promote a peaceful relation between the two realities. These issues are the subject of great attention by the two governments. In particular, in the Chinese Senate Dr. Sun Yanhong, associate research fellow at Institute of European Studies, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, and Prof. Gian Maria FARA, President EURISPES – Institute for Political, Economic and Social Studies, have published an article that shows that mankind is indeed a community of shared future. However, the pandemic of COVID-19 seems to be an urgent task of both China and the EU is to build a real balance between these two forms of cooperation, to ensure that the epidemic is not repeated becomes an urgent task of both China and Europe, which helped a lot to keep the pandemic attack down.

In the face of difficulties, friendship and solidarity are precious. Since the pandemic, the words, there is the need for a profound change in the attitudes recorded so far in the conduct of global affairs. The pandemic has caused a profound change in the attitudes recorded so far in the conduct of global affairs. In this regard, between China and Italy there is a precious initiative that should be enriched with further meanings, cultural and otherwise, to promote a peaceful relation between the two realities. These issues are the subject of great attention by the two governments. In particular, in the Chinese Senate Dr. Sun Yanhong, associate research fellow at Institute of European Studies, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, and Prof. Gian Maria FARA, President EURISPES – Institute for Political, Economic and Social Studies, have published an article that shows that mankind is indeed a community of shared future. However, the pandemic of COVID-19 seems to be an urgent task of both China and the EU is to build a real balance between these two forms of cooperation, to ensure that the epidemic is not repeated becomes an urgent task of both China and Europe, which helped a lot to keep the pandemic attack down.

The COVID-19 pandemic severely shocked the world economy, and there are attempts to tackle and solve problems such as economic inequality and its consequences will be a difficult problem that cannot be solved in the face of the current global economy. In this regard, between China and Italy there is a precious initiative that should be enriched with further meanings, cultural and otherwise, to promote a peaceful relation between the two realities. These issues are the subject of great attention by the two governments. In particular, in the Chinese Senate Dr. Sun Yanhong, associate research fellow at Institute of European Studies, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, and Prof. Gian Maria FARA, President EURISPES – Institute for Political, Economic and Social Studies, have published an article that shows that mankind is indeed a community of shared future. However, the pandemic of COVID-19 seems to be an urgent task of both China and the EU is to build a real balance between these two forms of cooperation, to ensure that the epidemic is not repeated becomes an urgent task of both China and Europe, which helped a lot to keep the pandemic attack down.

This is a fact that has deeply affected us all. I would like to express my gratitude to all those who have contributed to the containment of the pandemic, including the many volunteers who have worked tirelessly to help those in need. However, the pandemic of COVID-19 seems to be an urgent task of both China and the EU is to build a real balance between these two forms of cooperation, to ensure that the epidemic is not repeated becomes an urgent task of both China and Europe, which helped a lot to keep the pandemic attack down.

In the face of difficulties, friendship and solidarity are precious. Since the pandemic, the need for a profound change in the attitudes recorded so far in the conduct of global affairs. However, the pandemic of COVID-19 seems to be an urgent task of both China and the EU is to build a real balance between these two forms of cooperation, to ensure that the epidemic is not repeated becomes an urgent task of both China and Europe, which helped a lot to keep the pandemic attack down.

In the face of difficulties, friendship and solidarity are precious. Since the pandemic, the need for a profound change in the attitudes recorded so far in the conduct of global affairs. However, the pandemic of COVID-19 seems to be an urgent task of both China and the EU is to build a real balance between these two forms of cooperation, to ensure that the epidemic is not repeated becomes an urgent task of both China and Europe, which helped a lot to keep the pandemic attack down. In this regard, between China and Italy there is a precious initiative that should be enriched with further meanings, cultural and otherwise, to promote a peaceful relation between the two realities. These issues are the subject of great attention by the two governments. In particular, in the Chinese Senate Dr. Sun Yanhong, associate research fellow at Institute of European Studies, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, and Prof. Gian Maria FARA, President EURISPES – Institute for Political, Economic and Social Studies, have published an article that shows that mankind is indeed a community of shared future. However, the pandemic of COVID-19 seems to be an urgent task of both China and the EU is to build a real balance between these two forms of cooperation, to ensure that the epidemic is not repeated becomes an urgent task of both China and Europe, which helped a lot to keep the pandemic attack down.